

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

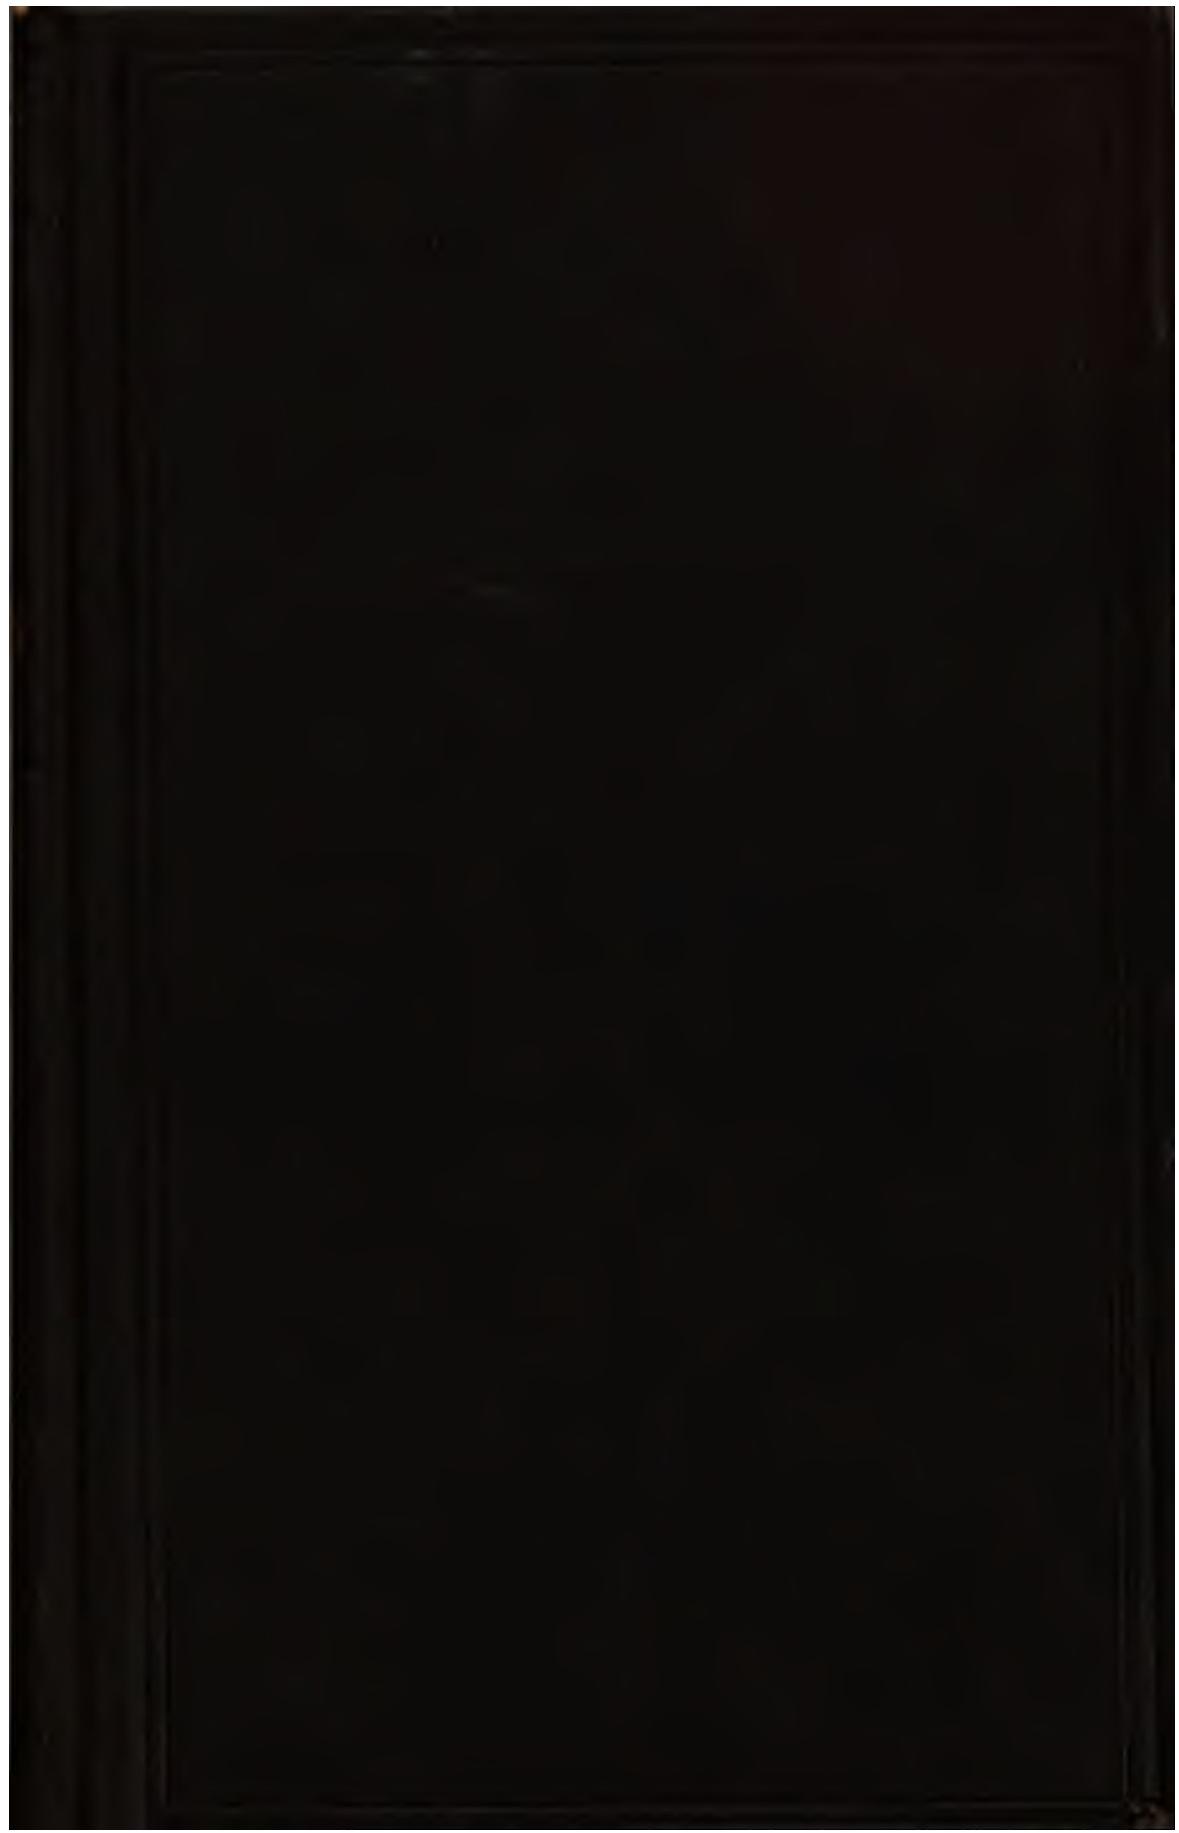

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

SILAS BRONSON.

SILAS BRONSON, to whose thoughtful liberality the City of Waterbury is indebted for this library, was born in that part of the Town of Waterbury then known as West Farms, and now included in the Town of Middlebury, February 15th, 1788.

His father, Elijah Bronson, was a farmer of moderate means. Silas was the fifth of a family of eight children; and it became necessary for the children, at an early age, to do something for their own support. Silas, after receiving only a limited common-school education, labored for four years as a carpenter and joiner. He then removed to the State of Georgia, where he followed the mercantile business for fifteen years, mostly in the City of Augusta. In the year 1830 he removed to the City of New York and commenced the business of an importing and jobbing dry goods merchant. In 1835 he suffered severely from the memorable fire of that year; but by energy and perseverance he soon made good his losses. His old friends and customers at the South were in the habit of consigning their cotton to him. He managed this with such skill, and so much fidelity to their interests, that the business largely increased, and ultimately he abandoned his dry goods trade, devoting himself entirely to a commission business, which he continued until increasing years and cares and failing health compelled him to retire.

He died in New York City, November 25th, 1867, aged nearly 80 years. He never married. By his will he left Two Hundred Thousand Dollars to the City of Waterbury to found a Library, wisely leaving his bequest unhampered by annoying restrictions.

He also left Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars to the New York Hospital, and the remainder of his estate, about a Million and a half of Dollars in all, to his brothers and sisters and their children.

A friend says of him, "Mr. Bronson's was not an eventful life. He commenced with nothing and through long years of patient industry and frugality accumulated a large fortune. He had a high and deserved reputation for commercial integrity and was never greedy of large profits either on merchandise or for the use of money, but he was most cautious in the bestowal of credits. He was by no means a miscellaneous alms-giver, and was sometimes considered to be penurious, but he was far from being wholly selfish. I have myself known several cases of liberal benefactions to his friends and to members of his family. He would never accept any favor or service for himself without at once offering compensation."

Mr. Bronson was an intimate friend of the late Matthew Vassar of Poughkeepsie, who was named in his will as one of the executors, which appointment was subsequently revoked by Mr. Bronson, in a codicil, in the following affectionate and touching language; "and, inasmuch as, by reason of increased age and its infirmities, the executorship might be deemed a burden which I ought not to impose upon my friend Matthew Vassar, I hereby revoke the nomination of said Vassar as one of the executors of my will."

Mr. Bronson had a plan of founding a school for boys during his life-time, something after the manner of Mr. Vassar's Female College, and which was probably projected in consultation with his friend. Ill-health prevented him from carrying out his plan, and a provision with reference to it in his will was afterwards revoked, mainly, it is believed, from an unwillingness to cast the burden of it on his friends whom he had named as Trustees.

The character of the man, his appreciation of educational advantages, and his attachment to his native town are well exhibited in the opening clause of his bequest, which is as follows: "For the promotion of the education and intelligence and general information of the inhabitants of the City of Waterbury, in the County of

New Haven, and State of Connecticut, in whose well being and prosperity I feel a warm interest; and to encourage and sustain in said city good order and sound morals, which I deem largely dependent upon intellectual and moral culture, I do hereby bequeath," etc.

The portrait accompanying this sketch was engraved by Sartain from a miniature in Mr. Bronson's possession painted about the year 1840 by an artist named Hite. The Bronson Library is indebted for the plate to Mr. Edward L. Bronson of Waterbury.

Mr. Bronson lies buried in Greenwood Cemetery, where an ample lot incloses a handsome granite monument with the following inscription:—

FOUNDER

OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY,

WATERBURY, CONN.

BENEFAC TOR

Of the New York Hospital.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

ALL inhabitants of the City of Waterbury are entitled to the free use of the Library and Reading Room, under the conditions specified in the following sections.

1. Any resident of the city may take books from the Library, after depositing with the Librarian a written guaranty signed by a resident freeholder, or other responsible person, that the books loaned shall be duly returned, and that all fines and penalties assessed for the non-return of, or damage done to, the books, shall be paid. The guaranties on deposit will be revised by a Committee of the Board of Agents, from time to time, and any that are deemed unsatisfactory will be rejected. Blank forms will be furnished by the Librarian.

The Mayor, the Aldermen, the Common Councilmen, the Board of Education, the settled Ministers of the city, the Teachers of the public schools, and the Board of Agents of the Bronson Library Fund, shall be entitled to draw books without a guaranty.

Any resident of the city may draw books who shall deposit with the Librarian five dollars; and this deposit shall be returned (less any fines or penalties incurred), whenever the usual guaranty is furnished, or the account is closed.

Any person visiting the city may temporarily receive the benefits of the Reading Room, and the use of the books, within the Library building.

The Board of Agents may grant to non-residents, in special instances, the privilege of drawing books from the Library under such conditions as they may deem proper.

2. No person shall take out more than one volume at a time, or retain it more than two weeks. A fine of three cents a day shall be assessed on books which are retained more than two weeks; and no other book will be delivered on the account until the fine is paid.

3. New books which are in special demand will be marked "Seven-Day Book," and shall not be retained more than one week. If retained for a longer time, the borrower shall be subject to the fine specified in Section 2.

4. Books which are retained more than four weeks, and "Seven-Day Books" which are retained more than two weeks, will be sent for at the expense of the borrower.

5. "Seven-Day Books" cannot be renewed; nor can they be taken again by the same person until they have remained on the shelves for twenty-four hours. Other books can be once renewed for fourteen days, if application for renewal be made at or before the expiration of the first fourteen days. No book can be renewed when it is overdue.

6. Encyclopædias, Dictionaries, and other books needed for reference in the Library or Reading Room; books not easily replaced in consequence of their rarity or value; unbound Periodicals, and books deemed by the Board of Agents unsuitable for general circulation, shall be used only in the building, and such works will be designated on the Catalogue by a star prefixed to their titles. In special instances works of reference may be loaned by vote of the Board of Agents.

7. When persons entitled to draw books shall first apply, they will enter their names and residences in a register kept for that purpose. They will receive from the Librarian a card headed with the name of the applicant, and number of the account on the ledger. From the Catalogue, they will write on the card the numbers of the books they desire, and will pass the card to the attendant. The card will be returned to the applicant with the book selected; and when the book is returned the card must accompany it. No book will be delivered to, or credited to, persons who do not produce their cards. When a card is lost immediate notice must be given to the Librarian, and, on satisfactory proof of such loss, a new card will be issued. Book borrowers must also notify the Librarian of any change of residence.

8. The Library shall be open for the delivery of books from 10 o'clock, A. M., till 9 o'clock, P. M.; and for the registration of new applicants from 9 o'clock, A. M., till 10 o'clock, P. M.

The Reading Room shall be open from 9 o'clock, A. M., till 10 o'clock, P. M., and during these hours the books of the Library may be used within the building.

The Library shall not be open for the delivery of books on Fast Day, the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day, New Year's Day, during the annual examination of the Library, and on such other occasions as the Board of Agents shall by vote determine.

9. Public notice shall be given by publication in the city papers, two weeks before the close of the Library for the annual examination; and on or before the day designated, all books belonging to the Library must be returned, and a fine of one dollar will be imposed on each and every book not so returned.

10. Any person abusing the privileges of the Library by unbecoming conduct, or by the violation of any of the regulations, by the intentional defacement of a book by writing in it, or in any other way, shall be reported to the Board of Agents, and by them excluded from the Library, for a time, or permanently, according to the nature and degree of the delinquency or default; but, in case of any gross offence, the Librarian shall act summarily in the matter, and cause the offender to be at once excluded from the building.
